

Christ-centered Transitional Housing Tucson, Arizona

H.O.P.E. Recovery, Inc. is now accepting applications for our Transitional Housing Program. The Philemon House, (for men); and The Well, (for women) are Christ-centered transitional houses for men and women in recovery from alcohol/drug addiction and other life-controlling problems.

Located in mid-town Tucson, the Transitional Housing Program offers Christ-centered solutions to addiction through the power of The Holy Spirit and Biblical principles set forth in God's Word, The Holy Bible. We believe that structure and discipline are two key factors to successful recovery and restoration to wholeness.

We offer a safe, healthy environment to encourage and empower those who desire to reestablish their life; and obtain timeless tools that will allow them to maintain a life free of life-controlling problems.

Our program will help develop deep roots of discipline and steadfastness in a structured environment; while rebuilding valuable assets like work/life skills, strong work ethics, relationship mending, communication, problem solving, and stress/anger management. We will also assist in job skills assessment, development and placement.

Recovery is more than just not using, and not acting out. You must change your thinking, and learn new behaviors. These things can only take hold through structure and discipline; conditioning yourself to focus on the things that will build positive and constructive habits. This will allow you to realign yourself with Christ and what He would have for your life.

If you or someone you know is over 18 years old and is willing to turn their life over to the power and care of Jesus Christ, in order to rid their life of life-controlling problems, then H.O.P.E. Recovery, Inc.'s Transitional Housing Program is for you.

Healing can begin – You can Overcome life-controlling problems –
You can Persevere in this lost and dying world – We can Encourage one another
